

Predictions are fixed; error against the tumour target grows with how far the methylome moved

